MORAL SUPPORT OF U. S. ASKED TO BRACE UP FIGHTERS

Breach in Battle Line Effected by Soviet, Fortress Is Captured.

(By Associated Press.)

Warsaw, July 23.—Poland has announced proposals direct to the soviet government at Moscow.

The Polish line today still ran to the east of Grodno, it is announced in the official communiqué. The Polish front was said to be unimpaired south of the Pilip and in Poland, east further south a breach in the line effected by bolshevik cavalry reported.

U. S. ASKS U. S. TO GIVE MORAL SUPPORT

Washington, July 23.—Poland has asked the state department to formally announce to the world "the moral support" of the United States to Poland in its battle with the soviet.

Russian bolsheviks. The request also was made that a similar expression from President Wilson would be welcomed and would "do much to colored the moral of the Polish people."

CAPTURE OF FORTRESS OF DUBNO REPORTED

London, July 23.—Capture by soviet troops of the fortress of Dubno, one of the Volhynia group of fortifications defending the southeastern border, is announced in Thursday's official statement from Moscow, by wireless today.

ALLIES HOPE THEIR AID WILL NOT BE NEEDED

Paris, July 23.—Marshall Foch will not go to Warsaw unless the report of the French and British missions now enroute indicates that the result of his presence is a subsequent development in that military aid by the allies is required to prevent the bolsheviks from overrunning Poland, it was learned today.

Some hope is entertained in official circles that direct armistice negotiations between Poland and Soviet Russia may make allied intervention unnecessary.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS COAL MINES FACE FORCED SHUT DOWN

(By Associated Press.)

Belleville, Ill., July 23.—Coal mines throughout southern Illinois today were faced with the possibility of being forced to shut down on account of an unauthorized strike of their day laborers which started yesterday and is reported to be rapidly spreading.

Approximately 20,000 men are idle according to the strikers.

The miners are demanding an average wage increase of from $5.50 to $7.50 a day and greater further concessions to their men.

More than a dozen mining centers are already reported to have been affected.

COAL INDUSTRY IS PRACTICALLY TIED UP

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—Only four coal mines in the one coal field and southern Illinois coal fields are working this morning. Both operators and miners officials here declare the industry practically tied up. Tomorrow, they said, the strike will be one hundred per cent.

The only mines still at work are at Assumption, near Athens and the mines near Springfield.

This condition of complete cessation of coal mining, miners and operators expect, will continue until the government acts on the wage demands of the "day" men.

Coal shortages, the meantime approached extreme limits. Railroads in Illinois are running short, and should the mines remain closed for four days, will have to look to other states for fuel supplies to keep going.

DRYS IN ATTACK ON HARDING'S STAND

Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—Aaron S. Watkins, Germantown, Ohio, and D. Leigh Colvin, prohibition party candidate for the presidency and vice presidency, today issued statements condemning the stand on prohibition taken by Senator Harding in his speech of acceptance yesterday.

"We notice with regret that Senator Harding mentions and even emphasizes the fact that many dissent from the law and he will, if possible, try to secure its repeal," said Mr. Watkins.

"It is all right for Senator Harding to speak of law enforcement," said Mr. Colvin's statement. "Any one would do that. But his broad statement about repeat makes his stand absolutely unacceptable."

ORGANIZED LABOR DEFINES POLICIES IN STATE CAMPAIGN

WISCONSIN FEDERATION IS HOLDING CONVENTION IN LA CROSSE.

OPPOSES LEAGUE

Investigation of Management of Capitalistic Side Is Ordered.

(By Associated Press.)

La Crosse, July 23.—Organized labor in Wisconsin is going to investigate the side of labor and management in unionized institutions and report thereon.

The information so gathered will be syndicated to the newspapers of Wisconsin.

The program, which was adopted at this morning's session of the state federation of labor convention, upon suggestion of Sec. J. H. Handley, is identical with the plan suggested by Prof. John R. Commons of the University of Wisconsin, who warned the workers, "unless we are able to feel that under-production is due to labor unions, we are the result of an enormous propaganda being carried on by the manufacturers and employers of the nation. Commons said that the slow-up in production was due to lack of efficient management as often as it was due to labor unions."

Demand Deb's Pardon.

An absolute pardon for Eugene V. Debs, now serving a 20 year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., was demanded in a resolution which will be sent to President Wilson.

Amnesty for all political prisoners was demanded in resolutions which branded their incarceration, now that the war is over, as "vengeance being wrought against those who dared to differ with the ruling power."

Immediate restoration of free speech, free press and free assembly were urged in resolutions.

Citizens' Council Scored.

The citizens' council for constitutional government, which earlier in the deliberations of the state convention was branded as the Anti-Saloon league camouflaged, came in for another drubbing this morning when it was charged that it is dominated by the capitalistic class which has the breaking of organized labor as its goal.

Resolutions endorsing the attitude of local street railway employees in asking for increased wages and better working conditions were passed.

C. O. C. Defeated.

The American League of Commerce and its subsidiary organizations were denounced as enemies of the organized workers. The resolution recited that the chamber of commerce is seeking members from the ranks of labor for the purpose of securing information as to the activities of the employees.

After much discussion, during which today's chairman, Frank B. Weber, Milwaukee, urged the members to go slow, the convention endorsed the Plumb plan for railroads.

With the exception of the American Federation, which has already decided for government ownership with the control partially in the hands of the employees.

There were no marks of violence on the body, express company employees said. The police immediately took possession of the trunk and its contents for investigation.

The woman was apparently 25 to 30 years old, the police say, and weighed about 120 pounds, had blue eyes and had been fairly good looking. Two upper teeth of her left jaw slightly protruded, but this is believed to be a natural deformity.

Condensate League of Nations.

The state convention branded the proposed league of nations as an instrument of capitalistic control and called on congress to have nothing to do with such an organization.

But to seek to bring about a world parliament with general disarmament as its main object.

Compulsory military training was favored in a resolution which asserted that it is for the sole purpose of protecting financial interests at home and abroad.

LIBERTY BONDS MUST BEAT PAR

One of the Features of Senator Harding's Speech Appealing to Popular Support.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by Janeville Gazette)

Marion, O. July 23.—Prospective of how many reservations, if any, there may be proposed by General Cox, the democratic platform committee him to the present league of nations and the ratification of the treaty of Versailles to the extent that President Wilson sought a clear opinion on the league his wife has been gratified for Senator Harding throws overboard the treaty of Versailles and calls for a new peace agreement with the nations of Europe. Naturally the democratic will say this means a new conference and international negotiations and confusion and delay. The Johnson View.

But the whole tenor of the Harding speech of acceptance indicates that he believes the Johnson view of the league is more popular than any other. He unhesitatingly subscribes to it. As for the remainder of the speech, the Ohio Senator has written an eloquent oration with solemn warning as to the ever increasing demand of labor for more work which his sons cannot be headed unless accompanied by efficient service in the speech.

The Ohio Senator goes into detail skillfully on the subject of farmers cooperative organizations, thereby appealing to the agricultural vote. He goes back to the old Panama Canal tolls fight of 1913 and practically reverses the position taken by Senators Lodge and Root at the time of the vote that the American ships to be immune from the payment of tolls was a discrimination against British ships and a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

However, the Irish voters opposed that repeat of the Panama Canal tolls act and the presumption is that they still feel indignant about it.

Throughout the Harding speech there is a touch of satire and cooperation. Not a word of denunciation of President Wilson by name occurs in the speech. There are only implicit references to one-man government and autocracy.

The Ohio Senator gave his address in the name of modesty and conscientious desire to do the best he could if elected to the presidency. His phrase "no man is big enough to run this great republic" has its curious counterpart in Woodrow Wilson's speech of acceptance in 1912 when in referring to the Roosevelt desire for a third term, the then democratic nominee said "there is no indispensable man."

Liberty Bonds at Par

Aside from a belief in the protective nature of efficiency in government because a general proposal about more equitable taxes, a less belligerent statement full of hope and optimism about our relations with Mexico which causes the threat of revolution, the speech of acceptance introduces a new suggestion that is bound to make a popular appeal when the stamp speakers get hold of it—namely requiring the government to make its liberty and victory bonds worth all that is claimed paid for purchasing the same in course of time. It is ultimately redeemed at par, but the republican nominee hints at a new fiscal policy that he hopes will raise the price of bonds.

Throng to Greet Him

Thousands upon thousands of visitors crowded this little town to hear Senator Harding speak. "The whole thing seemed more like an old fashioned political rally in a state or county than a national affair. It was a gathering principally of plain folks in which the visiting citizens from the urban centers were conspicuously few.

Senator Harding is in the old McKinley atmosphere and to-day's ceremony breathed the spirit of the old days of Republicanism in Ohio.

Whether the visit on Thursday had anything to do with this point Mr. Ulrich would not state.

Chicago, July 23.—Most of the talk made thus far by Senator Roy P. Wilcox, Euclid, Ohio, in his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination of the state, has been made in the open air, in parks, on street corners, and the like, and everywhere he has been greeted by wonderful crowds.

In one or two instances he has driven both the speaker and his audience into the houses, but in each case the speaker went indoors, and while augmented his number of hearers. This was the case at Grand Rapids, when a heavy rain stopped his speech to an audience of five hundred, only to be resound a few moments later in the doorway to an audience of eight hundred.

The senator spoke this week at Elroy to over two hundred railroad men. He upheld the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively.

"It is not possible for the growers to control their grain until it reaches the manufacturer."

"We hope that this plan will give the farmers a stable market, and at the same time prove of great advantage to the consumer."

Brokers Take Huge Sum

Speakers declared that grain brokers now charge the farmers $60,000,000 each year for handling their crops.

She DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

A TRIP TO THE DENTIST'S. Went to the dentist's this morning and passed a melancholy two hours there. Yes, it was all my own fault by the clock, and all my own fault, to have a tooth pulled, and was supposed to have made an appointment with Dr. Wiles, but of course, forgot. Artists never details can remember such pretty details! So I had just to walk my tiny steps alone, where only teeth are pulled, a tooth-pulling specialist, so to speak. Every one who walked in was due to lose one or more teeth, and their faces were not cheerful. I can tell you.

One poor girl, red-headed, girl with dimples, sat beside me to cheer herself up. Fancy, for she had come alone, even as I had done. Trust me to face the very worst ordeals head up and fearless, not to mention alone. It's part of my spartan-like belief.

I watched this girl sitting forlornly and scanning the faces of everyone who emerged from the gas parlors with a strange fear in her blue eyes. Finally I managed to catch her eyes and smiled. Pretty soon she came over to me, and we fell into conversation.

I discovered that this was her first trip to the dentist's in any shape, form or manner, and that the reason she was alone was because she was an orphan and her only sister was sick.

By degrees we managed to start up quite a cheerful conversation for two people about to be executed, and several times at one of my remarks, I really did laugh.

On the carousal of patients I, on one side, hidden to view for a short space, and then out of the other door again. Some came out calmly, others with very red faces.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for 2 years and now he has asked me to marry him. I love him more than any one in the world, but would marry him in a moment without hesitating.

I am the only child and my father is dead. Mother does not like this young man because he smokes. He gave up cigarettes because I asked him to, but he smokes cigars. He says he smokes only for pleasure. Mother says it is rather never smoked and she wants me to marry a man who does not.

Do you think mother is right in asking me to give up the man I love because he smokes? — GRACE

The fact is the young man smokes and does not seem to me a sufficient reason to give him up. If your mother argued that he was not strong physically or that he could not support a wife then I would give you to her. Alcohol and smoking is a vicious habit, most men have it. Probably if you waited for another man he would have the same failing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What kind of a wedding anniversary comes the second year? I want to have an anniversary for my best girl friend and invite several mutual friends and have a shower.

The second year is the paper anniversary. Why don't you ask the women guests to wear paper dresses? The young girls need not cost much. Paper drinking cups, paper doilies, shelf paper, etc., are all inexpensive but attractive as shower gifts.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 18 years old and have a sister who is twenty. She has had relations ever since she was sixteen but I have not been allowed to have them until this year. I cannot have company unless I find out from sister first whether she wants the room that night. She almost always says she does. Sister has a date or not. More often no one comes to her and then I am simple left out too. This makes me very angry and I don't think it is fair. Do you? — MADOLYN

The arrangement is not fair which of you should have certain nights or to whom to entertain, your company, to say your sister chose Monday, Wednesday, Friday and you had Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Each of you could have a turn every other Sunday. I do not mean that you should have certain nights every night that is yours. Each a week is often enough for a girl of your age. It would be pleasanter, however, to have definite nights which you can feel safe in telling a young man he may come.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My boy friend has invited me to go to a picnic dinner with his mother, father and two sisters. Do you think I am supposed to take lunch for him and me? You might ask the boy if he would like to have you take something. Without a doubt he will say

BOOSTER TRIPPERS ROYALLY GREETED

Party Met With Enthusiastic Receptions.

Twenty members of the Bower City band, a soloist, a quartette, a spoeller, and a crowd, made the booster trip Thursday night a success. While there was disappointment in the committee over the failure of more than half the promised ones to turn out, the procession that left the city looked twice as big as it really was, and it was effective, which was the big item.

ASSAULT CASE IS PUT OVER TO AUG. 3

Arraigned in municipal court today on a charge of assault and battery, William J. Cronin was ready with his briefs and a crowd. The trial was the same here as at other places except that it was somewhat longer. The visitors burned red signal fires and kept the illumination up for the time of the exercises. Under one of the beautiful street lamps of the city, W. W. Myers, president of the Board of Education, led by W. T. Thiele, rendered an excellent program.

Program at Each Stop Chairman Whetstone, of the Staging Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, opened the exercises with a speech. He introduced the quartet, Messrs. Clarke, Olson, Van Pool, and Loofbore. Then Miss Thelma Ames, who sang excellently in spite of the dust, made a hit with the audience. O. A. Oestreich, president of the Board of Education, gave a warm invitation to the picnic and kept his audience with him all the time.

Pleasant Time at Fulton At Fulton there was an ice cream social and the popular populars added to the spirit of the occasion with zest. There was a large gathering and the arrival of the band and singers made an added attraction.

This afternoon the sun to Orfordville, Fitchburg and Evansville will be made.

Confectionery Stores to Close The confectioners and ice cream parlors of the city will close from 1 o'clock to 6 p.m. on Wednesday next according to an agreement entered into by all concerned. Those who will close are Razooks, Homsey's, Rosene, D. & L. Sweet Shop, Pappas', and Nimmer's.

PUBLIC COMFORT STATIONS NEEDED NOW.

Need for the public comfort stations is emphasized in the face of the coming Community Picnic of the Chamber of Commerce. A parade in the city in the forenoon, the first real event of the year in Janesville, to call a large crowd outside, will bring many people to the city. With all the stores closed and no provision made by the city for the comfort of visitors, the condition is not at all pleasing nor is it a good advertisement for the city. We need the stations right now. It may be necessary for the committee in charge to ask the merchants of Janesville to keep the stores open during the morning of Wednesday in order to care for the public decently. Public comfort places are provided in practically all of them, and on that day the stores can make some sacrifice for the benefit of the visiting people.

It would be well for the committee having the arrangement of the picnic in charge to take this into careful consideration and perhaps to invite as many of the merchants as feel disposed, to keep open on the forenoon of Wednesday for the benefit of the people who are to be Janesville's guests.

Next year we may hope that public comfort stations will be erected and that this condition will not be again repeated.

FLIES, DUST AND THE BABIES.

While the Sanitary Inspector has reported many places wherein food is sold, to be filthy and the commonest rules of sanitation are violated, he also finds that in numerous cases there is effort at supreme cleanliness. In three days of active work the benefit to the city in having a sanitary inspector is appreciable in results. Dirt, filth, dust, kills the babies. These breed the fly, which carries death in proboscis and on wing. All the sanitary inspectors the city might hire cannot alone kill off the fly. All the reports cannot make the places clean after the first bath of soap and water and elbow grease has been given as a result of a clean-up order from the health department.

Janesville is not peculiar. The city is cleaner than many others where the city officials have not been so in earnest and so active in an effort to make the city the cleanest in the state and, ergo, the healthiest. This can be done with the earnest aid of the people. The Health Department is at the command of the citizens to answer any questions and to give helpful aid in making Janesville safer for the babies and the adults as well.

LIBERTY BONDS AT PAR.

During the war, when the government needed money, and the people of the United States went to the front with every ounce of energy and bought Liberty bonds, there was not only an implied, but in every government statement to the prospective purchaser, a direct pledge that these bonds would be forever maintained at par. Taking the word of the treasury department at its face value, the speakers and salesmen, regardless of party affiliation, repeated the government's pledge to the people.

How utterly that pledge failed, how completely valueless it was, how impotent and inactive the government has been in keeping faith with the people, is shown daily in the market reports on the bonds.

Senator Burdett calls attention to this in his speech of acceptance. He does more; he offers the suggestion and pledges administrative aid and the backing of the government to make these bonds what Mr. Wilson promised. While it may take some time to bring this about, it is plain that only by electing an administration, pledged to such a policy, will the people get relief.

COL. HOUSE'S REVELATIONS.

The revelations by Col. House, once the alter ego of the president, now a newspaper correspondent for the Philadelphia Ledger, that a treaty of peace, which would have opened up all the countries at war to trade and commerce, could have been made before Christmas 1918, had it not been for the attitude of President Wilson, are so important that they will certainly be used as corollaries of the league issues in the campaign.

The treaty is actually not yet made, here in July, 1920, for the very things which would have been left for future settlement, indemnities and property distribution, with delineation of some boundaries, under a treaty made at Col. House states, have been left to the conference which has just held a session at Spa.

"He kept us out of peace" is still more pertinently emphasized in referring to Mr. Wilson in the light of these House disclosures.

These are busy and bustling days for the political candidate. He can ride far and fast in the automobile, speak out of doors without fear of rain, shake his thirst from a wayside spring, shake the hand of the toiler while leaning against a shock of wheat or picking his teeth with the top of the timothy stalk, and incidentally save the country.

The nearest approach to a political party going over Niagara Falls in a barrel is the candidate who is trying to carry the wets with him.

Perhaps Mr. Blaine will find that the nonpartisan league is more of a millstone than an elevator.

Notwithstanding the hot weather, the trend of Chicago's murder market has been downward.

Weather report from Vermont: Clement weather here bad for woman suffrage.

The Fortune Teller

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., July 23.—The fortune teller is a fat, pale woman with the alert and wary eyes which belong to men, and women and other animals that live by wit and cunning. She is a curious being, half fraud and half fanatic. The method by which she peers into your future is an absurdly simple trick, easily analyzed and easily defeated. Any yet beyond a doubt she more than half believes in her own supernatural powers.

She tells you that she is a prophet like the prophet of old and especially like Daniel, and that she has three angel guides who tell her of the future, and through whom she communicates with the dead. Her voice rises dramatically and her green eyes roll as she tells you how the secrets of the universe are revealed to her. Then her voice sinks to a weird low tone as she tells you that she has energies, no less than fifty of them, and that she is fighting her through the Black Astral with every suggestion. Through the Black Astral they are able to hover about her unseen. She hears them in her room at night; they move furniture and ruffle curtains. She feels the cold wind of their passing and the faint disturbing shiver of their evil suggestions. But is she afraid of them? Not she. She repeats a certain formula and hurls into them with all the force of her mighty will her own counter suggestion and they are confounded and fly away moaning.

A silly old woman, you will say, with a touch of paranoia taking the form of persecutorial delusions. True enough. Then why write a story about her? Because she is a part of almost every American community, a factor in our national life. There is a demand for such as she, and all kinds of people make it. This woman, for example, claims that society women and members of congress are among her patrons. She may lie about this, but certain it is that taxicabs and automobiles bear prosperous and intelligent-looking people to her door, and they pay from two to five dollars each to listen to her strange ramarille. She is full brother to the medicine man of the red savages and in essence exactly the same thing as the Voodoo woman of the Haitian negro. She has no more place in civilization than has cannibalism. And yet she is one of many here in Washington, one of thousands no doubt in the whole country. And America, high and low, black and white, trots to her door. She exists in many forms, from the primitive gypsy appealing to the lowest types, to the so-called scientific palmist and occult psychologist, who stir the savor of science into their web of savagery to make it appeal to a sophisticated taste. She is the visible proof that we have not after all traveled so far from the spook-haunted jungles of primitive life. She is the closer foot of the satyr projecting grotesquely from under our neat garments of civilization.

You shuffle the cards and she spreads them before her and "concentrates." Her method of reading your past is shrewd but simple.

"I see water," she says. "You have been across to Europe?"

No, you have never been across.

"But I see water—not so much perhaps—but water, surely water."

You finally admit that you crossed the Potomac in a rowboat last Sunday.

"Ah, that is it—I only knew water. Do you know a dark man—a very dark man?"

Now everyone in Washington knows dark men.

The collector of your apartment house is one of the darkest of all earth. So you admit that you know a dark man.

"Switch out for him. Keep your eye on him. He is going to do you harm!"

Thus you are confirmed in a previously formed suspicion that the janitor has been stealing the milk.

If you answer all her feelers correctly she will quickly and very shrewdly find out a great deal about you, but if you choose to do so you can lead her a thousand miles astray. Thus about two out of every three people in Washington work for the government in a big government building. Hence:

"I see a big building, a big white building. You work for the government?"

As a matter of fact you have escaped that curse and you work in a loft over a movie, but for the sake of experiment you nod.

"A very high white building—the capitol, perhaps—do you work in the capitol?"

Again you assent.

"Ah, then that is where you have met these powerful persons—these four kings. They are powerful friends. And they are going to do great things for you."

So the thing goes. If you admit that you are married you get a lot of advice about how to get along with your wife. If you claim that you are not married a queen is turned up who is the symbol of your marital destiny and you get a lot of advice on how to land her.

Her method is simply to throw out feelers along the most conservative lines. Thus, if you are more than thirty the chances are about five to that you are married, and if this guess proves wrong, she takes cover by saying that then you soon will be married. The chances are also that you have some little property if you look prosperous. So she sees property. If you refuse to admit that you own any property, then it is your strong hope of owning property that she has seen. Her skill comes in putting together all the information she gathers, and in deducing other things from what she has learned. It is easy to see how she can make an impression of supernatural power on a credulous person who deals honestly with her. But by telling her a few lies, or confirming her in a few bad guesses, she can turn your fortune into your own hands and make your life one of anything you please. You can endow yourself with a wife and eleven children, a mysterious past and a dead uncle who hovers about your left ear to give you good advice.

Most of what the woman tells you is harmless enough, but not all of it. She herself has delusions of persecution, and therefore she finds that everyone else is being persecuted.

"Have you any enemies, dangerous enemies?"

"Tell her you have not a serious enemy in the world, so far as you know. But she turns up three jacks in a row, and a ferocious glibt comes into her eyes.

"Those three jacks—all together. They are your enemies. And they are connected. That means a plot against you. It means that evil influences are bearing against you. Have you never felt them?"

You admit that you haven't.

"Have you never felt dizzy, or suddenly cold?"

You admit that such sensations have occasionally assailed you.

"That's them." They work through the Black Astral. All evil influences do."

And she goes on to tell you about it. She warns you of a certain dark man and of a certain black couple.

Thus in a credulous mind she plants suspicions and fears which often attach to particular persons, how many friendships broken, how many fears and worries and even crimes may be laid at the door of the Black Astral in this enlightened land?

Says a headline, "Red Army Moves Toward Wausau." If so it is looking for more trouble than it can handle—Milwaukee Sentinel.

From the election returns from Marathon county we should say that the Red army will get as boisterous a welcome as it would from the Fifth district in Milwaukee.

LIQUOR IS FOUND IN RAID BY U. S. AGENTS IN MONROE

Monroe, July 23.—George Thrig, federal prohibition agent, assisted by Sheriff Mitchell and Captain J. C. Uekell, visited the Griffin's Zimbach place of business on the west side of town and his home Tuesday night, securing liquor of various kinds, samples of which were taken or destroyed.

At the business place, formerly a saloon, four sample bottles of cider and milk were sold, were taken, and among 20 odd bottles of a beverage labeled a tonic.

At the home the officers found nine bottles in the upstairs rooms.

The Mystery of Hartley House

By CLIFFORD S. RAYMOND

(Copyright by George H. Doran Co.)

The disappointed shyster went away in a hurry. I was not only perplexed but alarmed. Of the capacity of the little man, of his lack of conscience and morals, I had no doubt at all. My only question was whether he could make his malice and cupidity effective.

Jed showed him to the door and then came back. I can see that he was frightened, really to death.

TAINTER IN

We had seen nothing of Dravada or the lawyer for nearly three weeks. I was unable to think that we had heard the last of them. Dravada's purpose had been to lose his position and the lawyer's cupidity was too great for either to abandon his interest. Jed's disposition was restless, and soon he recovered his poise. He thought his enemies had abandoned their intent.

It was a relief to me when going to bed and after a few minutes awoke to hear the rustle and scurry of the dogs about the place. They were active at night. Rabbits, coons, weasels and occasionally a fox kept them moving.

Jed's courage returned—and with it. I was called to observe, a third time, another fit of temper. It showed itself first in moodiness and then in silence. I was glad to find that Jed in this mood this time was not directing himself against me, but was turned against me.

I knew that he was in torment again. He had nothing to say to me unless he saw me in Mr. Sidney's room. Then he was pleasant.

"Jed," I said to him one evening, "know you better than you think I do. You'll regret yourself until you do say what you'll regret."

"Get the devil," said Jed.

Isobel and I had been progressing as rationals as two young people could, situated with regard to each other as we were.

One evening I had been reading and Isobel had gone to the piano. I had my book down on my knee as she began to play. Then I was aroused by perceiving, without seeing, that somebody was near me.

I turned suddenly, and there Jed was. He was not three feet behind my chair. His face revealed disorder of mind.

"Do you want a cocktail?" he asked.

"No," I said.

Isobel touched the keys of the piano, as a player done with a mood may do to express surfeit or conclusion.

"Not a mild one?" Jed asked, persisting.

"Well, then, very weak," I said. I took up my book again and forced myself, as discipline to read. I had been able to do it so long as I could play, but now that she had stopped I might at least try.

I made an effort. I tried to keep my attention on the typewriter in use. After 15 minutes' reading I found that I had not turned a page. Now and then Jed would turn the typewriter and the servant.

I got up and walked about the library. I went to the front entrance to find a few deep breaths in the open air would not produce tranquility.

I stood at the entrance. Isobel came running toward it. I heard her before I saw her. She came up the steps, saw me, controlled herself, and tried to appear unconcerned. She might have succeeded but a sleeve of her gown was torn from her wrist and had fallen to her wrist.

"What has happened to you?" I asked.

"Nothing," she said.

"You're running."

"A little exercise."

"Look at your sleeve," I said.

She clutched at it as it she had become conscious of it for the first time.

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. To do this, destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots.

How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

time, and then ran by me and indoors. We met at dinner 20 minutes later. Isobel had on another gown. She did not serve us. Dinner was delayed 10 minutes. Then two maids undertook the service. Mrs. Sidney asked for Jed. One of the maids said that he had not appeared and they were doing the best they could without him. "What can have happened to Jed?" Mrs. Sidney exclaimed. "What did happen to Jed?" I asked Isobel after dinner when we were alone.

"I don't know," she said. "What tore your sleeve?" "Jed," she said with resolute frankness. "Where is he?" "I don't know."

"Where were you when he did it?" "At the edge of the woods. I had gone out for a bit of air—just across the lawn. Jed appeared."

"I don't know something happened and he took me by the sleeve. I was not frightened, but I drew back suddenly. My sleeve ripped out. We were at the edge of the woods. Three men appeared, strangled Jed before he could cry out, picked him up and carried him away."

I spent the evening with Mr. Sidney and told him that Jed was ill. He was concerned, and I made the lie a kindly one.

"It is insignificant," I said. "With his habits he must occasionally pay a price." A touch of indignation this time.

To extemporize a few lines to get through the night was easy enough; but Jed was not back in the morning, and Mr. Sidney was worried.

I explained to him that Jed had been called away on an urgent matter, which seemed to Mrs. Sidney to justify his going at once. Mrs. Sidney, at my request, made no explanation to her husband, and I was not directing himself and she also, Mrs. Sidney.

"He had turned against me. I knew that he was in torment again. He saw me in Mr. Sidney's room. Then he was pleasant.

Well, if you put it that way, I'd rather have a kiss than a bum argument.

Little Girl (looking over newspaper advertisement) — Mamma, why do all these boarding houses oblige to children? I'm sure I don't know. Go and see what the baby is howling about, and tell Johnny to stop throwing things at people in the street, and make George and Kate stop fighting, and tell Dick if he doesn't stop bawling that drum so hard I'll take it away from him.

There was not even standing room in the crowded electric car, but one more passenger, a young woman, wedged herself along just in the doorway. Each time the car took a sudden lurch forward she fell helplessly back, and three times she landed in the arms of a large, comfortable man. The third time it happened he said, quietly:

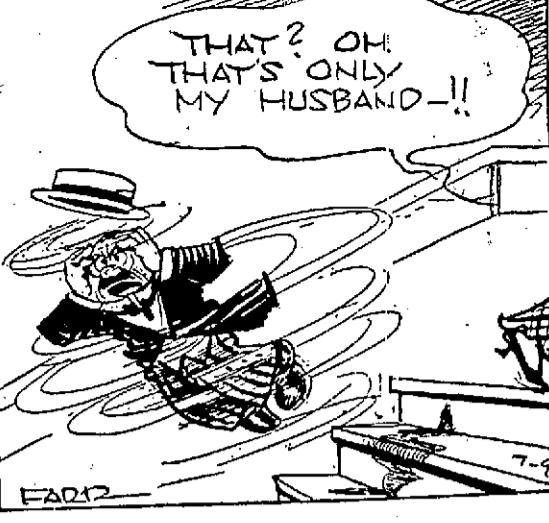

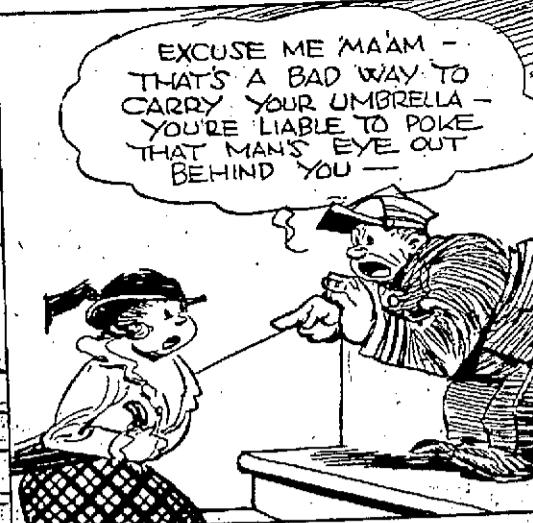

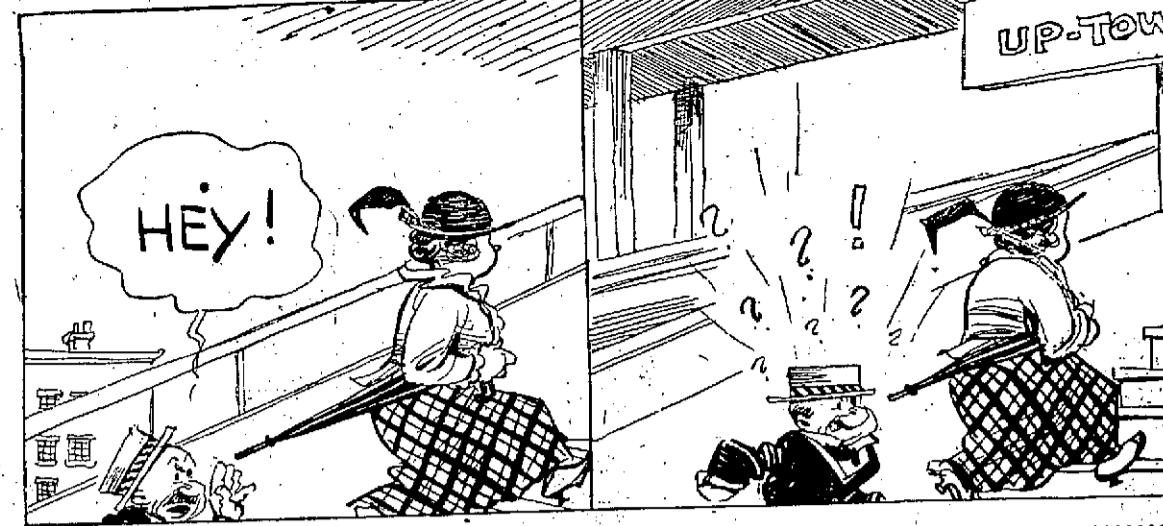

"Hadn't you better stay here?"

In the Zone finance office a letter was received inquiring about a bond which the soldier had purchased. His letter was rather incoherent and the office was unable to identify the person. So it was referred back to the office asking for more information and incidentally inquiring whether it was a converted bond.

"Now, the bond wasn't converted," wrote back the soldier, "and I don't want it messed up in religion, either. You just send it on to me like twas."

A few cents buys "Danderine." After an application of "Danderine" you can not find a fallen hair or any dandruff, besides every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and thickness.

Third of Big Samson-Fairy Games Comes Tomorrow

SATURDAY GAME HERE, SUNDAY'S AT THE LINE CITY

Who will do the jinking for Samson tomorrow in the first game of the second series with the Fairies of Beloit is a question that will not be decided until shortly before the bat.

"I would like to be able to use Bill Lathrop on the home lot," said Manager Perring today, "but you never can tell a day ahead of time how a fellow is going to feel. When there is the wind to consider. Then it breaks one, and the other is good for Lathrop, and the other it will be an advantage to Dumont."

Either Big Bill or Dumont will go in. Whoever is used tomorrow, the other will take the mound on Sunday.

There is a question in George's mind as to whom he will use at third. His ankle, which he strained last week at Kenosha, is still in tape and may not be in good enough shape to enable him to enter the game. In the event that it is kept out, Bill will be shovved on the crucial spot. This will necessitate a change in the outfit. Capron or Bigelow taking left field. Capron came back early in the week from his trip to Minneapolis.

Change Bunting Order.

Since the Fairies played here on June 20, Manager Chubb has switched his batting order. Thomas continues to be the lead man, but Bunting succeeds in the place of Bechtow, who is out entirely. Allison remains in third place, while Haltonay now comes fourth in the place of Befingway, who drops down below Buster Keens. Murphy continues to bat eighth.

Hold Those Cushions.

A request is made by the Samson officials that the fans be more careful in their use of the recently provided cushioning. In a recent game here, some of the men, in their excitement, picked up the soft seats and threw them around. One of them landed in a woman's face, knocking her glasses off and breaking them.

The Samson band will give an hour's concert from 2 to 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The musical aggregation has been performing exceedingly well at previous games and has become to be a necessary expectation with the fans each week.

Two More Games.

The week-end clashes between the two rival teams will be followed next Wednesday and Thursday by two more. On Wednesday, the two clubs will travel to Portage and play for the inhabitants of that burg. On Thursday, they will go to Stoughton and cross bats. These smaller towns, hearing of the keen competition between the teams, have agreed to see the teams. At a total of $1,000 side bet has been put on for the winning club. It is possible that many fans from the home towns will go along with their favorites.

THE STEEL GUITAR.
He couldn't "get" the Mandolin. He couldn't "get" the Lute. But I am telling you today that soldier certainly could play the single-stringed home-made guitar!

Perhaps it wasn't quite as swell. As one they sell you in a store. But he could make it laugh and sing. And do it on a single string. And when he'd quite w'd yell for more!

He made it of a pup-tent-pole. And half a box. Q. M. Cigar. And then a wire that he kept around his dog-tags when he slept. And voilà! There's your steel guitar!

And we would hang around his bunk. Right up till Taps from after chow. Hymn, Old Black Joe, and Long, Long, Long.

While the old string would eeh and wail. Gosh! I can see the whole bunch now.

Outside the chalky, dry chaises. And France, America seem far. From all this noise and dirt and war.

Of course it made us homesick more. But still I liked that old guitar. But it was just unusual and so. They broke us up. I got transferred. His outfit, seems, got badly mangled. If he was with 'em and went West. Or was behind, I never heard;

He wasn't much as soldiers go. Nor as a man quite up to par. But I would give an awful lot. To pay him back for what I got in France from him and his guitar.

And the next thing to look for, says some, is up to see "the" newest night-gown.

CITY PAINT SALES HIT HIGHEST MARK

Demand Strong Despite Prices Increased 100 to 500 Per Cent Since 1917.

Janesville home owners are helping more than ever to keep the city looking bright by painting their houses according to statements of local dealers in paint, who state that business this year has far outstripped that of previous years, one even stating that already his business is 100 per cent greater than last year's, with the fall trade yet to come.

The demand for white lead can hardly be kept up with. Although there is no special scarcity there is such a demand that companies can hardly supply it. Freight trouble has caused a shortage of cans.

It was stated by two local dealers, Fredel & Rice, and S. Hutchinson & Sons, that the greatest hardship suffered by the painting business next to trouble in securing labor, is the scarcity of cans and paint. That, being one of the reasons why it is so hard for manufacturers to keep up to the demands of the trade, is the difficulty of getting containers, as most people throw them away after they have used them, and the former manufacturers of them find that it is more profitable to use the metal for other articles.

Walter Rice of Fredel & Rice, stated this morning that business was seriously hampered by the strike of painters early in the spring. Strike Effects Felt.

"It had not been for the strike of the painters," he stated, "this year would have been a banner year for our business. As it is, our business has increased 100 per cent already and we expect the business to pick up again in the fall, as July and August are always dead months. Painting continues until cold weather begins at the first sign of spring. Of course spring is the best season."

James E. Hutchinson of Hutchinson & Sons, stated that their business had increased enormously. "We have had a greater business this year than ever before," he stated.

When asked as to the cause of the increase Mr. Hutchinson said: "It is due, doubtless, to the after effect of the war. During the war people did not paint their houses. They were hoisted then. People were saving their money. Now their houses need painting and they realize that prices are up to stay and they may as well paint now as later, as the price is going to go again."

Paint Duties to Price.

Neither sees any drop in the price of paint or linseed oil. White lead is now $16.25 for a 100-pound keg while linseed oil is selling for $2.50 a gallon. These prices have been effective since late in the spring. Prices gradually increasing up to the cost of linseed oil once sold for a gallon before the war, while white lead has been as low as $7. per 100 pounds, and was $9 when the war started.

Next to white, the people demand chrome yellow. Mr. Hutchinson states that he had never before sold so much chrome yellow paint. This is also true of chocolate color, which is next in favor.

Many Do Own Painting.

Because of the strike, people mixed their own and painted their houses more than formerly.

All products sold by the paint stores are selling greater than ever, especially varnish and auto paint.
